Consider a Minor in International Agriculture

The international agriculture minor will teach you how to think of agriculture from a global perspective. This minor requires you to have an international experience and to take a culture or language studies class in addition to internationally focused agriculture classes.

Declare an International Agriculture Minor today!

Find more information at: http://z.umn.edu/iagminor

Considering a minor in International Agriculture?

This program focuses on food systems, agriculture and environmental ecosystems in an international context. Students will take courses focused on agricultural issues, two culture or language studies classes, a directed studies course, and participate in an international experience.

Apply to the International Agriculture Minor today!

Find more information at: http://goo.gl/LØLfZq